is, I believe, ordered, the particulars of which can surely be ascertained by application to the Emigration Commissioner. But once more let this not trouble be a source of trouble for you, but do it merely, if it should relieve you of some burden, I mean the bathing with you a maid. You will know what sort of persons are best fitted for the Colony, and suit yours

Yours very for ever

[illegible]

BC151 C4·21

J. A. P. L.
A. J.

1½ p. m. 22 Aug.

I will just this a late letter in order to tell you that I think the Emigration Commissioner in England is empowered by a proclamation (which is probably sent by this mail, and is not yet published) to grant to such persons whom he thinks fit certificates, whereby they who ship them, will here be entitled for the repayment of ~~the passa~~ half of the passage money.

I mean, if he should pass a maid of yours, we would get half the passage money back here after your arrival from England. — I do not know this is for certain, but some such arrangements

is