

just remembered I forgot this money ^{again} to ~~the~~ ^{to} what abt the cheque for the rest of that £200 w^t I have - but I'm with change it for me to Mrs. Root & then I can give it you darling - I know you with understanding by saying this - because you know all that mine is yours too, & has been so in my heart - mine ever since we were engaged.

So take care of yourself - for my sake -

1/4 post 4 - I am just home - I've only just entered your little bag to return it by him to want to know see his note - therefore not

76 of my box arrived your Monday part 13
 as my - your own my darling now so very

I send you my book with a matter at the marriage service I have & I thro' that part is now always omitted - as I have been at every wedding I've been at - I trust with me

The long & short of it is we want to ask Mr G to leave out (w^t he has the perfect right to do
 - w^t does not at all effect the service itself - as I fear I not w^t been able to stand so long -
 I think you will find your little prayer book more useful to have than mine - but just as you like - You know there is no need for you to be troubled with any ^{book} because the only parts we are obliged to say we repeat after the clergyman - except "I will"

wh. our hearts I know are too full of & easily forget - I re-glanced thro the A B C &
Remember that I wish entirely I cant say how entirely, to leave it all to you - with full trust in whatever decision you may come to -

I send also a little parcel entrusted to me for you by dear Aunt May Anne - by poor Father's eldest Sister I'd so wished to give it you yesterday but I've hardly got - I know you can kind all she says. I mean as her mean it. Whatever that may be - say this, because she told me she had put a note not inside - & I felt that A Miss. W's conduct may have given you such a shock abt English people (only she is Welsh) that you w't not easily believe again -

Goodbye for now your darling your feminine Oth. I'm
